Main memory

CPU

screen   keyboard

CPU only knows simple, primitive instructions. Like how to add
#'s, or move things in main memory.

High level programming languages (like C++) help bridge the gap between how we think + what the CPU understands.